Hun Army Now Only 15 Per Cent of War Strength

BERNSTORFF DENIES HE AIDED SPIES

FORMER GERMAN AMBASSADOR ASSAILS BOY-ED AND VON PAPPEN.

LAYS PROOF TO BRITISH CHIEFS

Always in Turmoil With Hun Military Officials, He Declares.

By Alfred G. Anderson
International News Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, April 4. (Via London) April 5.—A denial of the complicity in the acts of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Pappen in the United States or even the slightest knowledge of them at the time they were committed was made today by Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to Washington.

(Boy-Ed and von Pappen carried on an active campaign in the United States, resulting in strikes and numerous acts of destruction in industrial centers.)

Von Bernstorff went on to say that the British foreign office had in its possession evidence to establish his claims.

Allusion in Interview.

The allusion to his Washington sojourn came from an interview on the subject of Germany of the old regime holding office under the present socialist rule.

Von Bernstorff reiterated his previous declaration of democratic sympathies adding that his leanings towards democracy had been the occasion of several clashes between himself and the former German government.

"Throughout the war I was in continuous conflict with the military and naval rulers of my country," said the former ambassador.

"How hard I had to fight them, and especially in the cases of the Lusitania, the Arabic and the Sussex, is sufficiently clear from dispatches which have been deciphered in America and are therefore known to the United States government."

Strongest Opponent.

"I was one of the strongest opponents of unrestricted submarine warfare. I always worked for peace, and like your president, tried my best to end the world conquest in 1918. Not having succeeded, I am now busy denouncing our military and naval leaders. I almost felt as though I had scored a beautiful victory when those fatal influences were removed through revolution. That is why I stayed."

The ex-ambassador was then reminded of his connection with the activities of Boy-Ed and von Pappen to further Germany's militaristic designs in America.

He replied:

"I must emphasize that whatever Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Pappen may have done they acted quite independently of me. I never had any official connection with them in New York and received their instructions direct from the general staff and admiralty in Berlin."

"Moreover, may I remind you that they left the United States. I am officially assured by the American state department that I was not involved in their affairs. Still less did I have to do with the German agents of the army during my stay in the U. S. I heard of them only when their enterprises failed."

"After the departure of Captain Boy-Ed and Captain von Pappen from Washington I continued to work in the U. S. for a whole year for a peace of reconciliation until the deplorable resumption of the war. I was then, however, decided upon against a most emphatic advice, put an end to all my efforts."

"On my return to Germany, I told every person who would listen to me only immediate democratization of our entire governmental system could bring the war to a speedy end. My advice was not heeded."

"Only the revolution, which really began under the chancellorship of Prince Max of Baden, was effectual in bringing about the downfall of those military militaristic and democratic enemies. It would have been incongruous for me to resign."

"I feel honor bound to stay and give a helping hand in this blackest period of my country's history."

Mother In Plea For Wayward Son, Believed Here

A mother's plea for a wayward son has reached the Gazette office. The letter from Mrs. William Blackwell, 3609 Park avenue, South Covington, Ky., reads as follows:

"We have a son who left home. It will be three years in July. He left home once before about five years ago. He said he worked for a man on a dairy farm out from Janesville, and we think he is back up there in Wisconsin. If you can give us any information about him, it will be greatly appreciated."

"His little sister and brother talk of him every day. If he would only write to us, I hope this isn't asking too much of you. If you have boys you can know how bad a mother wants to hear from them."

From His Mother.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE BREAKS ALL RECORDS IN AUTO LICENSES

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, April 5.—The department of state has broken all records in issuing automobile licenses and plates this year, having sent out over 150,000 automobile licenses and numbers and 6,300 truck licenses to date.

During the same period last year, the total number issued was 75,000 automobile and 3,500 truck licenses.

The receipts from licenses exceed $1,560,000.

The total issued thus far this year, 156,300, is much larger than was issued during the first six months of 1918, when the total was only 97,000. On July 1, 1917, there had been 140,000 licenses issued, and on July 1, 1918, 127,000.

In the course of an earlier issue, it was expected that the total of licenses issued will exceed that of July 1st last year.

Applications are pouring in at the rate of 3,000 per day. At the present time, the department is handling near the 200,000 mark. Arrests are now being made by the police officers of the various cities where parties are caught running cars without proper registration. This is adding to the rush of applications.

The unusual rush for licenses has entailed a lot of work upon the clerks of the local postoffice and the railway mail clerks, as it has upon the department. It has necessitated the handling of 470,000 pieces of mail, incoming and outgoing, or a daily average of 4,600 pieces. At the present time, the department of state is handling 9,000 pieces of mail daily, the letters containing applications coming in by the sacks-full, and plates going out by the truckload. This has necessitated less complaint regarding delayed plates and licenses this year than ever before, indicating that the mail service is also better than in some years in the past.

REDS, HUNGRY, ILL ARE SHOT TO DEATH IF THEY QUIT POSTS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Archangel, April 5.—The situation in all sectors on the North Russian front again is comparatively quiet. A bolshevik prisoner questioned regarding the morale of the enemy forces declared today:

"The soldiers of our regiments are mobilized peasants and the officers are volunteer communists. The spirit of the soldiers is low and everybody is 'fed up' with the communists. The soldiers are treated severely and are shot for leaving their positions without permission. A new system of discipline has been inaugurated, different ranks and divisions are being established and soldiers must suffer on pain of death. Our men are suffering from typhoid and look on the situation as being one in which the peasants are against the communists. Along the road are posts garrisoned by Chinese who search all travelers and take everything they can find."

Italian Envoy Says "We Will Follow Will Of Our People"

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, April 5.—Asked if the Italians would leave the peace conference, Ignace Jan Paderewski, Polish premier, declared that the Italian cabinet, and one of the Italian peace delegates, said today:

"No decision has been reached as yet. It is obvious the Italian delegates feel they must follow the will of the Italian people." He recalled that after the collapse of Austria and Italy, the entry of Italian troops into the city of Fiume, that city had appointed a national council composed of three hundred of its most prominent citizens.

This council, he said, had called upon the public to decide what form of government was desired, the answer being a plebiscite in favor of annexation to Italy. Wednesday, he said, the national council of Fiume had unanimously adopted a law by which the city took the Italian flag as the banner of the city.

Signor Barzilai declared that this was the best proof of Fiume's wish to be joined to Italy under the will of the Italian people.

Eyes with vision defects are apt to become noticeably tired during the hot days which are to come soon. The strong, harmful sun rays cause increasing pain, redness of the lids, and the sensation of dreading strong light.

If the eyes feel uncomfortable it is best to consult a reliable optometrist. Should glasses be necessary he will prescribe lenses which will end the strained, tired feeling.

M'CUTCHEON TALE
TO START MONDAY

"Green Fanny," a typical M'CUTCHEON tale, the war time alternative of the famous Graustark tales by the romantic novelist, George Burr M'CUTCHEON, will start serially in this paper Monday.

When war closed Graustark to tourists, M'CUTCHEON brought his princes and princesses to America where they could live and love and intrigue to their heart's content.

The story of "Green Fanny" has snap; things happen quickly; the plot has originality. "Green Fanny" is a strange hidden house near the Canadian border. In and around it is staged an exciting drama of European intrigue. A counter-espionage from a European country that is under the heel of the invader—who had been entrusted with the crown jewels and important state papers, is decoyed to Green Fanny and held a prisoner by members of the royal family who are playing a crooked game.

A wealthy New York clubman stumbles on the plot, breaks up the conspiracy, outwits the cleverest thief of two continents, rescues the countess and the crown jewels and in the end wins a charming bride.

The narrative gallops along at a rapid rate, with plenty of dramatic incidents and exciting situations, relieved by the touches of humor for which the author is famous.

58 FEEBLE-MINDED
PATIENTS ARE MOVED

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, April 5.—Fifty-eight patients from the home for the feeble-minded at Chippewa Falls have been transferred to the Southern Wisconsin home for the feeble minded at Union Grove, Racine county.

This transfer marks the opening of a new state institution which has been under erection for the past four years. Of the patients transferred, twenty-three were males and twenty-five were females. A report of the transfer has just been filed with the legislature by the State Board of Control. The claim is made to the legislature that the present facilities are not adequate to care for the number of feeble minded in the state. Additional buildings will be asked for at the Union Grove institution.

According to the report of the board of control, there are 5253 insane patients in the state under public care, of this number 1305 are cared for in state hospitals; 104 at the Central hospital for the insane; 576 at the Milwaukee hospital for insane and 258 at the county asylum for chronic insane.

Populations at other state institutions are as follows: Wisconsin School for the deaf 151; Wisconsin school for the blind 105; Wisconsin Industrial school for boys 441; Wisconsin State prison 733; Wisconsin state public school 243; Wisconsin Home for the feeble minded

New Mark Set by Oliver
Plow, Townsend Tractor

The Townsend tractor and the Oliver plow again demonstrated their worth yesterday when they made a record of plowing three acres of land in two hours and five minutes, a remarkable record.

The test took place at the Bleasdale farm, located on the Manover road and was viewed by several expert tractor users, who stated that the test was a record one.

Three acres of soil were plowed, the best time being made on the first acre, in 41 minutes. The other two lots were done in 42 minutes apiece. Owing to the rain the exhibition of the tractor and plow planned for this morning at the Bleasdale farm was postponed until this afternoon.

Income Tax Advisors
Ready to Give Aid

The rush of business in the corporation tax advisors' office has not started. The advisors, T. H. Corfield and P. J. Mount, opened their office on the second floor of the postoffice yesterday for an indefinite time. Only a few have so far availed themselves of the opportunity of getting advice on filling out the returns. All corporations of whatever income are obliged to file returns.

Government
Fish Release

The extraordinary demand for the government fish which we were deputized to dispose of to the general public has induced us to repeat our order for two ton more which are now on sale at the following low prices:

FLOUNDERS	8c	HAKE	8c
HERRING	5c	WHITING	5c

Flounders can be prepared in many ways. The most simple way is to fry in pork scraps or drop into deep fat. They are of course thin and need but little fire.

To Fry Any Fish

Fish should be dried thoroughly, seasoned with salt, and pepper, rolled in bread crumbs or Indian meal, dipped in beaten egg, again rolled in crumbs or meal, and fried in deep fat like doughnuts. The temperature of the fat should be kept above 375 degrees. When the fish is cooked, it will rise to the top of the fat.

Fillet of Sole.

Cut off the head and tail of a large flounder, and set away for future use. Cut off the fillets from the fish and bake them in the oven for ten minutes and set them away to cool.

Points to Remember.

Fish should be fresh. If they are the gills will be red and the eyes bright and clear. If the flesh along the backbone is in good condition, it is a sign that the fish is fresh.

Fish should never stand in water.

Fish should never be fried in butter.

Plain boiled and mashed potatoes, squash and green peas go well with any kind of fish.

Cooked fish never need be wasted. It can be made into a stew or a delicious salad.

Remember, fish is made or marred in the cooking. With no other food can a good cook do so much.

Broiled Herring.

Split down the back and clean. Be careful to scrape all the thin black skin from the inside. Wipe dry and lay on the gridiron; broil on one side a nice brown, then turn and brown the other side; it will not take so long to brown the side on which the skin is. (All fish should have the side on which the skin is, turned to the fire last, as the skin burns easily and coals are not so hot after you have used them a few minutes.) Season with butter, pepper and salt.

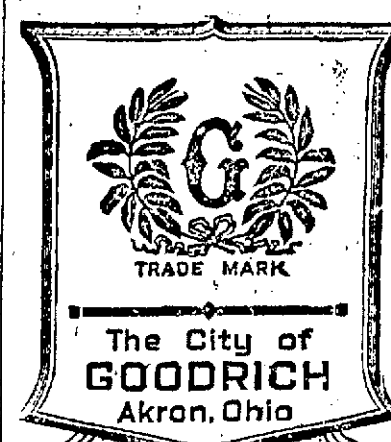

OUR GUARANTEE—Fish frozen within two hours after being caught—as sweet and wholesome as when just out of water—inspected and passed by Health Department—sold for below cost on account of enormous oversupply accumulated for war needs but not used and to introduce to the middle west a sea food heretofore enjoyed only in the Atlantic Ocean states and in expectation of building up a big future demand for ocean fish in the west.

U. S. Department of Agriculture says—"Frozen fish are fresher than so-called fresh fish sent to the market packed in ice."

Department of Commerce, Fisheries Department says—"When frozen the good flavor of fresh Whiting is preserved."

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT

The women of Janesville: God bless them for intelligent and effective work performed during the campaign just closed! The organization, and the way it was handled, would have been a credit to any political party. There were no side issues—just the simple question: Shall we clear the way for the new era of prosperity? And they did!

Down on a corner of South Main street, Tuesday, a girl said "Good morning!" to a couple of men going down town, and then asked: "Have you voted?" They said: "No! We don't like your candidates and we are not going to vote." But she said, "We have no candidates; simply 'yes' or 'no' to the question, Shall we buy the land for a new High school building?" As they hesitated she said: "How would you like to see a High school building at Spring Brook, and a new city out on the bluffs beyond, with Janesville as a suburb?" They said: "We can't afford to take any chances on that." And so two more votes were secured for progress. Down in the fifth ward the vote was a tie, on the city ticket, but seventeen women came to the front, and saved the day on the bond issue.

This victory means more than simply a new school house. It means a "right about face" from stagnation and self-complacency to a "forward, march," and the experience is so new to us that we do not yet grasp its significance. It means getting together and working together for the city as a whole, in spite of the river, which has been a nightmare to us for fifty years or more. It means burying the hatchet for all time, and that sort of a funeral is occasion for rejoicing.

The vision of the future, which is so difficult for some of us to grasp, is very clear to the women of the city, and their lead is safe to follow. Among the appropriations of the General Motors company for this year is $4,500,000 for Janesville. This is not a "hot air" proposition; but the cold cash, and a liberal start has already been made. Outside of this industry, more new people have located in the city during the past three months, than during the past ten years, and the tide has just commenced.

It is a rare thing for prosperity to be thrust on a city, unsolicited, and yet that is just what has happened to us. The women are wide awake to the situation, and they are entitled to every consideration. They will need some financial help in their work for civic betterment, and it should be cheerfully furnished. The war has brought out the women of the land in bold relief. They are recognized today as a great working force in the nation. The success of the Red Cross work would have been a failure, without their efforts, and so many new channels of work have opened up to them that development has been rapid along many lines.

The question is no longer, what can woman do? but, what can't she do? The only trouble is that she will marry on short notice, to the embarrassment of employers, but that is always a laudable ambition, and but little complaint is made. The victory of last Tuesday removes many objections to the suffrage question, and yet there are all kinds of women voters, as was demonstrated in the Chicago election, where 200,000 women voted on the "wet" and "dry" issue, and 125,000 of them voted "wet." The Tribune attempted to explain the psychology of the situation, but the paper is anti-prohibition and the defense was not very satisfactory. It is mighty certain that the women of Janesville, or any other rural community, would vote right on any moral issue.

The men of Janesville have occasion to be proud of their wives, mothers and daughters. They did not all vote with the head of the house, but they voted right as time will demonstrate. It takes an obstinate man to stand in the way of his own prosperity, yet there are such men. And some of them are not so far away. If the wife, with clearer vision, voted the other way, forgive her and find consolation in the fact that the property on which you have been paying taxes so long, and tried in vain to sell at cost, is now in demand and easy to dispose of at a profit.

The women, God bless them, may their numbers never grow less, and may the good things of life come to them freely; including universal suffrage, if it will add to their happiness.

Mr. Charles M. Schwab, president of the Bethlehem Steel company, returned from the other side not long ago. Just before he embarked he met an American soldier at the wharf and said to him: "My boy, how are you off for money?" "Money!" came back the answer. "We haven't seen any money since the last pay day, five months ago." Then Mr. Schwab handed him a bill and said: "Permit me to make you a loan." And then he added: "Where is your company?" Then they crossed the gang plank, and soon the company, one hundred and fifty-two strong, was rounded up on deck.

Then he said to them: "Boys, by some strange series of blunders, which I can not explain, you have been permitted to fight for Uncle Sam without pay. Your claim is good and you are not objects of charity, and I will not insult you by offering to give you money, but I am going to loan you enough to see you comfortably home." Then he passed around among them and saw that they were all supplied, and said to them: "You can return the money at your convenience," and giving them his name and address he turned and left them with a good luck wish and a safe voyage. Opening his mail in his office three weeks later, he said to a friend, "I made an investment in Europe, just before I left, on the honor of the American soldier," and told him the circumstances. Then he said, "Out of the one hundred and fifty odd loans that I made, one hundred and thirty-six have already been paid."

That's a fine record of honor from any bunch of men, even if they all belonged to the church, but it was no surprise, to Mr. Schwab, or to the mothers of the boys now returning from across the sea. The American soldier is in a class by himself, and while his term of service was short, as compared to the armies of France and England, the people soon discovered that he was there for business, and with only one ambition, and that was to have the job over with at the earliest possible moment.

The history of the last two weeks of the war, so full of tragedy, reads like a romance. Many of the deeds of heroism and valor will never be written, because our boys, by the thousand, fell as victims. One boy from New York was found in a shell hole with a letter to his mother clasped in his dead hand. The letter read: "My Dear Mother: I am writing this letter on the field and I got wounded while fighting for Old Glory. I was wounded three times. God bless you and the girls. Pray hard for me. Tell Kitty that I love her and am always thinking of her and you. God bless you all until we meet in heaven. Your loving son."

Such were their thoughts as they died! They died, thinking of home and their loved ones! Died, thinking of the glory which was theirs! Glory, indeed, to be allowed to give their lives "while fighting for Old Glory!"

Many such instances could be recorded; instances which would show that while they fought with the tenacity and the determination of a warrior, their hearts were filled with love and tenderness for those left behind.

This boy belonged to the famous 27th division, which had so much to do with driving the Germans out of their cement entrenchments, only thirty-five miles from Paris. Our men faced the foe with but a meager chance for life, and many of them paid the supreme sacrifice, but there was no hesitation, and when the machine guns were silenced and the enemy routed, the end of the war was in sight.

The question of honor among men is more universal than

Sketches From Life -:- By Temple

His Army Life Makes It Hard for the Rest of Them

some people suppose. The average man is honest. He appreciates confidence and seldom betrays it. The mistake which is sometimes made with boys, and people in our employ, is that we fail to trust them with responsibility. There is nothing which develops character, and brings out ability so much as confidence. A banker, shelved for six months on account of illness, found on his return that nothing had suffered by his absence. The boys had picked up the load and carried it successfully. This is a common experience. Confidence begets confidence, in this old world. Which might be worse.

OWN A HOME.
The man who travels all around, And never acquires a foot of ground, Or, from the town that gave him birth, Goes hence and visits all the earth, And when at last his journey's end, He has no time to make a friend, And all alone must open the gate Of life's last door and face his fate. And likewise his whose money's spent, And keep a hen from roosting in a nest. He, also, is as insecure As he who travels on his way. Here yesterday and there today, He roams about in every town. That those good men who settle down And build a home and keep a pup Are always men who settle up And pay their bills right on the dot. And keep a hen from roosting in a nest. That man's a citizen worth while; The butcher cuts a chunk of dust And says, "Judy, me on the first." The grocer sends him sack and can, For credit's good with such a man. And favors he will always show To him who owns a bungalow. The moral of this little poem is, That it pays to OWN A HOME. J. H. VINCENT.

This talk will be about prices. On nearly everything in the Garden Seed line with the exception of Cabbage, the prices are lower than last year. In these days of high prices it is some satisfaction to find some things that are reasonable. Of course Clover Seed is out of sight, but we amateur gardeners don't use much of that. GARDEN TALKS NO. 4
This talk will be about prices. On nearly everything in the Garden Seed line with the exception of Cabbage, the prices are lower than last year. In these days of high prices it is some satisfaction to find some things that are reasonable. Of course Clover Seed is out of sight, but we amateur gardeners don't use much of that. And we find everything before it goes out. Remember this, some seeds are lower in price than ours, but quality considered, we have the BEST to be obtained and the small expense you are to will get you good results.

STATE LEGISLATURE
TO STAGE DRY BILL
FIGHT NEXT WEEK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, April 5.—The big hearing of the legislature next week will be over the Bennett bill to enforce the dry territory throughout the state.

This measure provides for a prohibition commissioner and places the enforcement of the law in his hands. The bill is stringent in many of its provisions and it is understood that even the anti-saloon forces will ask for changes in the measure as it is to be enacted into law.

The vote in some cities of the state on the "wet" and "dry" issue on Tuesday has stirred up some of the legislators. It is estimated here that a bill is being drafted to declare prohibition in the state on July 1, and not wait the taking of effect of the federal prohibition amendment next January. The measure is being drafted by the legislature.

"The Unwritten Law"
The unwritten law of the anti-saloon league of America is that no one connected with the league shall seek or accept office either by election or appointment, said Mr. Hutton. A letter is being sent to all of the anti-saloon leagues advising them of this decision. Mr. Hutton says that the league wants to remain non-partisan in organization and will work for a "dry" world by 1930. This statement disposes of the rumor current for some time in the legislature, that Hutton would be a candidate for the position as prohibition commissioner. Several bills giving municipalities greater power in the acquisition of public utilities will be given a hearing Wednesday by the senate committee on corporations. The Nye and Zurcher bills will be heard on that day. The latter measure would give the municipalities the right to acquire additional utilities for the city. Senator A. J. Pullen has announced a hearing on the legislative committee's marking bill, Thursday afternoon, April 10.

The Czevenitski bill for a four year college course in normal schools will be considered by the assembly education committee on Wednesday. On Tuesday, the committee on banking will hear arguments on the Hewitt bill to limit the earnings of state depositories to 6 per cent and to give depositories of $500 or over, a vote at the stockholders' meeting at the bank.

8-Hour Bill Up

OUT OF THE FOG

A Picture Presentation of Nazimova's Sensational Stage Success, 'CEPTION SHOALS

An Entrancing Story of Mist and Sunshine—That Will Carry You From the Heart of the Caribbean to the Rock Bound Coast of Maine

Read what Peter Milne, eminent critic, who reviews all pictures, says in Motion Picture News:

"Out of the Fog is a splendid combination of drama and star, so intensely dramatic, so skillfully acted, that it easily ranks as a triumph of art."

THE STORY

Well—to tell you the story would be a gross injustice to the art of the picture itself. It tells a tale so directly, so forcefully and with such consummate art, that it fairly defies repetition in cold type.

We thought in the past that Nazimova had reached the height of emotional acting—but in our opinion, "Out of the Fog" excels anything she has ever done.

You Saw Nazimova as the Fascinating French Girl in "Revelation"—You Saw Her as Romany's Light-hearted Daughter in "Toys of Fate"—You Saw Her as the Wild Child of the Desert in "Eye for Eye"—IN "OUT OF THE FOG" YOU WILL SEE A NEW—A STRANGE—A WHIMSICAL AND AMAZINGLY DIFFERENT NAZIMOVA.

Manager Zanias of Apollo Theatre
Enters Into Largest Movie Contract
Ever Written in This Part of the State

Movie fans will have opportunity soon to see what has been termed the greatest motion picture ever screened. The above reproduced check represents the price paid to the Wisconsin Film Corporation by Manager Zanias of the Apollo Theatre for a one week's showing of "Mickey," a picture containing heart interest which has never surpassed. "Mickey" will be shown for one whole week, seven days, the longest period a motion picture has ever been booked for in this city, and the above price is the largest ever paid outright for the rights to play a picture in Janesville.

"Mickey" is a picture which is full of fun and frolic. It sparkles with humor and bubbles with laughter. There is a deep heartfelt appeal in the unaffected wholesome love of this adorable little girl. Even the cat, dog and squirrel give startling evidence of being high salaried actors and as for Minnie Ha Ha, the actress who plays the part of the girl, she alone is worth the price of admission. The comedy is built upon the reality of human incidents and situations.

Wherever "Mickey" has been shown it has fairly brought the audience to its feet out of sheer enthusiasm and excitement. There is thrill upon thrill, and each thrill in these suspense-exciting incidents is just a little bit better than the last.

Mable Normand is the star in "Mickey" and so true and real is her charming portrayal of this famous personality that the audience lose themselves completely in her fascinating appeal. Mickey is a lovable, barum-skarum little tomboy, who is always getting into all sorts of scrapes that make you laugh and cry. Miss Normand's peerless characterization will immortalize the name of "Mickey."

Suitable announcement will be made in the advertising columns of The Gazette in regard to the dates on which this wonderfully popular picture will be shown. Manager Zanias is to be congratulated upon his endeavor to give Janesville audiences the very best pictures obtainable.

Capacity business is predicted for the entire week's showing of "Mickey," because it has been greeted with packed houses wherever shown, once it has been seen and the news of its popularity spread broadcast.

BIRD CORNER

Two new names have been added to the list of members of the Bird Club. They are Everett Davison, 427 North Chatham street, and Frank Fisher, 1315 West Bluff street.

The Robin
I saw my first robin on March 12th, near Main and Water streets. I was strolling along when I heard the old familiar "Cherry—Cheer up." I looked around, but could not find where the voice came from. I finally located my friend up in a tree. He must have been trying to play hide-and-go-seek, for he was jumping about playfully, as if glad to be back.

He was of very bright reddish brown breast. His back was dark, dark brown or more on the blackish order. His mate must have been near for the way he was jumping around, as if a sparrow was after her.

In the spring he will help build the nest, which is of course, twigs, grass and mud. They are found east of the Rocky Mountains. In the winter, they go south. The robins are usually the first birds to appear in early spring. They come back to help us get rid of the insects that are spoiling the crops.

By Veronica O'Leary, Janesville, R. F. D. No. 3.

On Sunday morning, March 16th, when I awoke I heard a robin singing "Cheer-up, Cheer-up" and it seemed to me he was singing winter is gone and spring is here. I got up, rushed to the window, and I saw the robin in our lilac bushes. His breast is reddish orange and his back was a blackish brown. After a while I heard him singing again.

I went to see where he was. I opened the door and listened and heard him on the porch, picking at the seed corn, and as soon as he saw me he flew to the cherry tree to his mate where they make their nest every year.

Some people put scare crows up to keep the robins away. We would rather share with them. I wish I would be one of the ones to get a bird book for my sister, brothers and myself. For many mornings on our way to school we saw many different birds. If I had a bird-book I would read and learn more about their life and language.

U. S. SOLDIER TEARS DOWN RUSS FLAG FROM TRAIN

Irkutsk, April 5.—An American soldier is alleged to have torn a Russian flag from the rear platform of a special train bearing General Diederichs, commander of the Czech-Slovak forces in Siberia and Col. Romanovsky, an anti-bolshevik leader in the Udonk district, when it was passing through the village of Pelka, Manchuria. Officers on the train expressed indignation over the incident when the train reached here today.

British, Russian and Japanese flags were shown on the rear platform of the train which had stopped at Pelka. The American soldier was aboard a troop train which had been sidetracked. A guard inside the car saw the occurrence, but not soon enough to prevent it.

The officers were irritated, since this was the second incident in which American soldiers have figured recently.

Three days before, several Americans on a troop train waiting at Mullin station, Manchuria, tried to board the same special train in spite of the platform guard. The latter pushed one of the Americans from the car, whereupon he and his companions secured arms and returning, demanded that the guard be turned over to them, according to the officers. Several cars filled with cadets from the Vladivostok military school were attached to the special and they likewise armed themselves. What promised to be a serious situation was relieved when the commander of the cadets ordered the train to start.

Reports of the incidents have been sent to Major General William S. Graves, commander of the American Expeditionary forces in Siberia by Col. Romanovsky. The latter informed General Graves that the men were intoxicated.

WOLVES OF THE SEA

By Randall Parish

The stevedore, who was standing with hollowed hands shading his eyes, staring forth into the swirling drapery of fog, turned at my call and pointed excitedly.

"There's a bark aground yonder, sir; and it looks like the Namur!"

Even as I crossed the deck to his side the wreaths of obscuring mist seemed to divide, as though swept apart by some mighty hand, and there in the full glow of the sun, a picture in a frame, lay the wrecked vessel. Others saw it as I did, and gave vent to recognition.

"Damned if it ain't the old hooker!"

"She got what was coming to her all right mates."

"And she's lousy with treasure!"

"Come here, Sam! That's the last of the Namur."

CHAPTER XXXII.

The Last of the Namur.

The vessel was plainly a total wreck, rapidly pounding to death on a sharp ledge of rock. Both masts were down, and, lifted as the bow was, it was easy to perceive the deck was in splinters where falling spars and topmasts had crushed their way through. The bows had caught, seemingly jammed in between rocks, the stern sunk deep, with cabin port holes barely above reach of the waves. Not a living thing appeared on board, and as the fog slowly drifted away, my eyes could discern no sign of any boat, no evidence of the crew, along the wide sweep of water. A voice aroused me.

"What was it you said, Jack, 'bout treasure on the old hooker? Why not get it afore it's too late?"

"It's that, all right, Ole," and I knew the speaker to be Haines. "Ain't it, Mc Carley?"

"Yes, lads, there must be money on board, unless these fellows took it with them in the boats. I know of fifty thousand pounds stolen in Virginia, and no doubt there's more than that. The bark is liable to slide off that rock any minute and go down like a stone. What do you say, bullies?"

PETEY DINK—WHY THROW AWAY ALL THE GAS HELMETS MADE DURING THE WAR.

"No, Captain Sanchez. The day after we left the ship we boarded a schooner found adrift, the crew stricken with cholera, with not a man left alive on deck, or below. She lies yonder now, the Santa Marie—a slave!"

"Merciful God!" and his eyes fairly blazed into mine as he suddenly forced his body upward in the bunk. "The Santa Marie adrift! the crew dead from cholera? And the captain—Paradilla, Francis Paradilla—what of him?"

"He lay alone on a divan in the cabin—dead also."

He tried to speak, but failed, his fingers clanking at his throat. When he finally gained utterance once more it was but a whisper.

"Tell me," he begged, "there was no woman with him?"

"There was no woman," I said gravely, "on deck or in the cabin."

"What mean you by saying that? There was one on board! Don't lie to me! In an hour I am dead—but first tell me the truth. Does the woman live?"

"No, she died before. We found her body in a chest, preserved by some devilish Indian art, richly dressed and decked with jewels."

"English?"

"I judged her so, but with dark hair and eyes. You knew her?"

"In the name of all the fends, yes. And I know her end. He killed her—Paradilla killed her—because she was as false to him as she had been to me. Tell me, is it strange you should be the one to find her—to bring me this tale, Geoffrey Carley?"

"Why? What is it to me?"

"You go back to England and tell the duke of Buccleugh how his precious sister died."

"His sister! Good God, you cannot mean that woman was Lady Sara Carley?"

"Who should know better than I?" sneeringly. "Once I was called in England Sir John Collinswood."

He sank back exhausted, struggling for breath, but with eyes glowing hatred. "I knew it all now, the dimly remembered story coming vividly back to memory. Here then was the ending of the one black stain on the family honor of our race. On this strange coast, three thousand miles from his beginning, the final curtain was being rung down, the drama finished. The story had come to me in whispers from others, never even spoken about by those of our race—a wild, headstrong girl, a secret marriage, a duel in the park, her brother desperately wounded, and then the disappearance of the pair. Ten days later it was known that Sir John Collinswood had defaulted in a large sum—but from that hour England knew him no more. As though the sea had swallowed them both, man and woman disappeared, leaving no trace behind."

The face I gazed dumbly into was drawn and white with pain, yet the thin lips grinned, back at me in savage derision.

"You remember, I see," he snarled. "Then out of here, Geoffrey Carley. Leave me to die in peace. The gold is there; take it, and my curse upon it. Hurry now—do you hear the bark grate on the rocks; it's near the end!"

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Before the Governor.

The sound startled me; yet I imagined I heard the keel slipping, yet before we had reached the door opening on deck the slight movement ceased. My hand gripped the frightened Helms.

"Tell them in the boat to do as I said; then come back here."

"My God, sir, she's a gold' down."

"Not for some minutes yet. There are thousands of pounds in that chest; you've risked life for less many a time. Jump, my man!"

The boat lay in close, bobbing up and down dangerously, yet held firmly beneath the opened port. The box was heavy enough to tax the strength of two men to handle it, but of a size and shape permitting its passage. Sanchez had raised himself again, and clung there to the edge of the bunk watching us.

"Now let down easy, lads," I called. "No, place it amidships; get it even, or you go over. Fix it to ride steady, and stand by—we'll pass a wounded man out to you!"

I stepped across to Sanchez. He saw me coming, and drew back, his ghastly face like a mask.

"No you don't, Carley!" he snapped angrily. "Keep your hands off me. So you want me to die with my neck in a noose, do you? I was born a gentleman, and by God! I'll die like one—and go down with my ship. Get out of here now! You won't? You will, or else die here with me! I'll give you a minute to make your choice."

He left no doubt as to his meaning. From beneath the blanket, the black muzzle of a pistol looked straight into my eyes. The hand holding it was firm, the face frowning me savagely.

"I am surprised, Albert," said the Dot Drawing teacher severely, "that you are unable to do anything with this curved line that is the reverse of the one Freddy finished. I'll have to put the dunces cap on you until you are able to complete it."

"It strikes me," said Albert, "that it is harder to complete this drawing than it was the other, but it looks to me that if I joined all of the dots properly I could make"

Dinner Stories

Mr. Packington, of Chicago, visiting in New York, was introduced to a lady as from that growing town.

"Ah," she smiled with the keen sympathy of the effete east. "From Chicago, I suppose you have Indians out there?"

"Yes, madam, some," he replied humbly.

"Ah! Aren't you afraid of being scalped?"

"Now now, madam; not now," he responded with profound sincerity. "I was before I came to New York, but having been skinned as I have by these New York Indians, I consider scalping by our Chicago breed as a mere bugaboo."

Then there was a lull in the conversation.

Prof. Date is a very remarkable man. He attended every showing of a certain movie serial, whereas persons of less persistence usually give up after witnessing half a dozen installments, discouraged over being unable to discover what it is about. But the professor stuck to the bitter end.

"Ah! And did he finally learn what he wished to know?"

"Yes," he said, "he did not expect to be able to find out what it was about, but he is much disappointed at being unable to find out why he couldn't find out what it was about."

"I don't like the way the road is run," said the irritable passenger. "What right have you to kick, compared to me?" said the conductor. "You only have to make this trip once in a while."

"Papa, I do hate to hear your pen scratch so," said little Jane.

"Yes, the paper, my dear."

"Well, papa, can't you get some paper that doesn't itch so bad?"

HINTS FOR THE MOTORIST

Derangements That Menace Life And Limb

The Front Wheels And Their Connections Bear Great Responsibilities

HERE ARE a great many derangements of car mechanism, which may occur at almost any time and leave a car and its passengers stranded upon the highway, inconvenient, but in no way injured but, on the other hand, there are a few derangements or breakages, the occurrence of which to a car in rapid motion is more than likely seriously to injure the passengers, to say nothing of wrecking the car. Every motorist should realize what these derangements are in order to be upon his guard against them. They are as follows: (1) Any derangement of the steering mechanism resulting in loss of direction control. (2) The loss of a wheel, causing the car to drop to the road upon one side. (3) The detachment of the forward end of the drive shaft, torque rod or distance rod and its consequent falling and catching the road, tending to overturn the car. Accidents due to all these causes prove serious in much more than direct proportion to the car speed at which they occur. (1) The breakage or disconnection of any part concerned in the steering function, resulting in the car's running wild or the sudden binding or locking of some part of the steering gear so that the car's course cannot be altered by the operator, are the two kinds of derangement. The first is the more common and is most likely to be occasioned by the accidental disengaging of the ends of the drag link (steering gear connecting rod). The greatest care should be taken that the ends of this are kept most securely fastened and indeed all the fastening devices in the steering gear should frequently be inspected. Perhaps the worst feature about a steering gear derangement is that the driver usually continues to try to gain control of car direction by the wheel after this has become impossible and fails to use the brakes in time to avert an accident. (2) The loss of a rear wheel is usually not serious under ordinary conditions, but the coming off of a front wheel is one of the most dangerous happenings conceivable. This may occur from the breakage of a wheel bearing, the loosening of the axle devices or the fracture of the spokes that carry the front wheels. Extreme care as to the condition of bearings and the security of locking devices, will do much to minimize these dangers. (3) Some cars have means for catching such parts before they can touch the ground. Bad accidents have happened from this cause, but they are much less common than those due to steering gear and front wheel derangements.

TUNGSTEN BREAKER POINTS

C. J. P. writes: The contact points in the breaker-box of the car that I now own, are always black in appearance, although they operate all right. I have been told that the points should be bright in order to give good results. How about this?

Answer: These points, if used in connection with a battery system, are a car of rather recent date and are doubtless of tungsten. Points of this metal are gray and not white and glaze over with a dark film which however seems not to prevent their successful operation. In fact, many makers of ignition systems, employing tungsten points, recommend that nothing be done to the points but that when they give serious trouble or are largely worn away, that they simply be replaced. Tungsten is cheap enough so that this is not an unreasonable suggestion. One thing is certain, it is not incumbent upon the motorist to keep tungsten breaker points bright as if they were platinum (for which we shall probably see but few in time to come.)

Questions of general interest to motorists will be answered in this column, space permitting. Address Albert L. Clough, care of this office.

Evansville News

Evansville, April 5.—The dinner served to the men who have been in the service of their country, by the fifteen department of the local Red Cross society, was a very delightful event, not only to the guests of honor, but to the donors as well. With the boys were invited their fathers and mothers and also the few remaining members of the Grand Army of the Republic who reside here. The guests in all numbering 75. The dinner was a typical American one and was served family style, at long tables in the Congregational church parlors. Music was furnished by the Marlowe Smith orchestra and by the Community chorus.

The invocation was pronounced by Rev. Hugh Medall. R. M. Richmond, always right at home as toastmaster, was at his best for this occasion. Speeches were given by Rev. O. W. Smith, Fred A. Baker, and by five young men representing different branches of service—Paul Jones, Willis Decker, Ben Green, Everett Van Fatten and Floyd Blakely.

The most enjoyable auto season of the entire year. Don't let the tire question rob you of the joys of motoring in the early spring.

Your casings may look old and appear only fit for the junk pile—but there may be thousands of miles left in them. Bring them to us—We'll tell you candidly just what can be done to put them in shape for further service.

The tire on the left had apparently seen its best days. The owner had obtained 5,000 miles of service from it and considered it fit for the junk pile. But he took a chance and brought the tire to us.

The wisdom of his action is seen by a glance at the same tire opposite. It looks as good as new and gives every promise of another season's wear of use at the average rate. This car owner saved money here. So can you. Will you? Retread your worn and junk tires and save money.

We do all kinds of tire and repairing and tube repairing and vulcanizing. Do not entrust the care of your tires to amateurs; bring them here. We also sell tires, tubes and all accessories.

Big Horse Sale Shows That Harness Racing Is Due For Comeback

(By D. W. WATTS.)
Is the harness horse, (meaning trotter or pacer) coming back? At the big sale held at the stock yards some weeks ago, the high bred ones, both trotters and pacers, from the weathlings up to those with fast records, brought more money in many instances, four or five times as much as they have in several years back. This, I think would mean that the big purses put up all over the country is incentive for those interested in this kind of sport, to get into it again.

It is not only a big Eastern business, but there has never been a time in years when the fair circuits, all over the country were given as much money as they are today.
As at Janesville, for many years was prominent in the limelight as a great racing center, the coming back of the horse, the coming back of the trotter and pacer should draw one of the largest entry lists that Janesville has seen in years.

There is one man, who years ago was prominent in the business as a driver, who might be said of got his first real start in Janesville, but as the old saying goes, a man is not without honor, even when he is old. This would certainly prove in the case of one great driver, who claimed his home as Janesville, Wis., and this was none other than the late John Kelly, who, in the early days, was one of the greatest drivers in the country. Kelly was a few years older to one of America's greatest reinmen, and who by the way, from California to Maine for many years in the business, was known as "Honest John Kelly." Whether winning or losing, his employer always knew that he was conducting the race from wire to wire. One of Mr. Kelly's early engagements was in the early days, when he made his famous world over, was the one in 1892, when he took charge of a stable of trotters and pacers in California, owned and managed by S. Kelly. At the early June meeting of the year, twelve head of the fastest pacers and trotters in the country were shipped from California direct to Janesville, where they made their first start that year under Mr. Kelly's guidance. In this stable were: Margaret S. Little Albert, and several other trotters, and Flying Glib, one of the fastest pacers in the world.

The next year, 1893, Mr. Kelly had his entire stable at Washington Park, Chicago, which was World's fair year and on the day that Flying Glib won the fastest racing race ever held, it was said that there were over 35,000 that paid admission to the grounds, and at the same meeting, Mr. Kelly drove Little Albert in the fastest race for all trotters, which took three days to decide, and never before or since has such a race been seen in any country. While Little Albert did not win this race, he was always the contender and stayed in the race—fighting out every heat to the end.

It was along some time later that the famous stallion race was in Boston, where all the famous horses from all over the United States took part, and for my information in this race, I am indebted to my friend Henry Dunbar of Peoria, Ill., for the article from which I am taking.

It was known as the "big week," which in this particular year, closed the season in Boston with one of the greatest races of the year.

A little black stallion, "Charlie Hunt" was in the pool owned by James Hunt, of Kentucky, and was in charge of John Kelly and was known at the time to be the fourth rate as they brought but little money in the pools, and Mr. Kelly showed his genius in this race, which was won by "Charlie Hunt," and this race possibly came to be put to rest in the light of all over the United States, and any other race that he ever drove in.

It was also with James Butler, millionaire program, for some three or four years. While with him he won a $10,000 purse at the big meeting in Detroit with a horse by the name of "Directum Kelly" named in honor of the driver.

It was along about this time that Mr. Kelly went into the great racing race at Buffalo, New York, where he beat the great pacer, "Robert," who was owned by Hunt and E. Geers, formerly known for many years as "Pop" Geers and considered to be by the best horseman, one of the fastest drivers. This race he won, and it was said at the time, that Monroe Salisbury cleaned up a good size fortune on this race, as every horseman in or near the driver.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Now, who do you suppose grabbed wicked Daddy Fox by the tail just as he was breaking in the door to get at the two little rabbits? You'll never guess, so I'll tell you right away. It was the Friendly Brown Bear. Yes, he had come by just in time, let me tell you.

George Kothlow, who was a business caller in this vicinity Monday, said that he saw the Friendly Brown Bear, and he turned around with a snarl, but when he saw that big brown bear he sang another tune.

"Oh, please let me go, Mr. Bear. My tail won't have any more hair if you pull on it so, please let go. And I'll go right home to my lair."

(And if you don't know what "lair" means, look in the dictionary, or ask your old maid auntie.)

But the big bear didn't let go right away. "Look here, Daddy Fox," said he, "and he gave the old fox's tail another pinch which made his ears wiggle. "Your promises are north nothing."

"What can I do for you?" asked Mr. Grashopper, when the two little rabbits knocked on his front door. "Well, like to see what kind of a house you have," said Billy Bunny, and Uncle Lucky took off his old wedding stovepipe hat and said:

"Yes, Mr. Grashopper, we think you've made a mighty nice sort of a bungalow."

"Very well, come in," said the grasshopper.

So the two rabbits went inside and sat down in a nice big room where Mrs. Grashopper was rocking a baby grasshopper to sleep in a little cradle made of straw. And in the next story you shall hear what happened after that.

However, I'll let you go this time, but if I ever catch you again, I'll cut off your tail with my big jackknife."

And then Mr. Bear cuffed that old fox with his right paw and let him go.

"Now you can come out of your little log cabin," said Mr. Bear with a grin, so Uncle Lucky and Billy Bunny opened the door and hopped out.

"How did you know we were inside?" asked Billy Bunny.

"Because I saw the Luckymobile," said the kind old bear, and, besides, I guessed Daddy Fox was after you."

Well, by this time it was morning, and Mr. Happy Sun was shining down from the skies. So the two little rabbits hopped into the Luckymobile.

"Don't you want to come, too?" asked Uncle Lucky, but the friendly old bear said he had to go to the Three and One Cent Store to buy his wife a new bonnet.

Well, by and by the two little rabbits came to a big haystack that was owned by a long-legged grasshopper. You see he raked up all the hay with his hind legs and piled it up with his front ones, and then he put a sign on the top, on which was written in big red letters:

"Grasshopper Hay House."

"Let's stop and make a call," said Billy Bunny, for he was a curious little rabbit, and, anyway, he'd never seen this old grasshopper's house before.

BEAVER BOARD
FOR BETTER WALLS & CEILINGSWhy Live with Cracked Walls and Ceilings
When They're Easily Covered Up

Beaver Board will cover them up for all time and you'll never have the job to do again. While Beaver Board is doing away with the danger of falling plaster it is covering up old dingy wall paper on walls and ceilings and giving you an ideal surface for painting and decorating.

Many an old homestead has been revived with this knotless, crackless manufactured lumber. Room after room has been made over—one at a time if you please—without muss or litter. Beaver Board is real lumber. It is built up into large panels from the strong, pure fibres of the spruce tree. Each panel is treated with the patented Sealite process which prevents warping. If you need to build or re-build, restore or enlarge ask us how you will profit by using Beaver Board.

FIFIELD LUMBER COMPANYHome of Character---No. 103

This house needs a wide lot as it is 34 feet broad—with a depth of 24 feet. The porch is carried across the entire front to give an effect of seclusion. The entrance leads into a large square reception hall from which the main staircase ascends. Arched openings connect the hall, living room and dining room into one large space for dancing when desired. Rear stairs from the kitchen are one of the many conveniences.

Wide siding and a stained shingle roof with rounded eaves and "thatched" effect give a very "homey" tone to this roomy small house.

The sketches shown in this space may prove helpful to you in planning the home. The advertisers on this page are at your service to assist you in planning, constructing, furnishing and beautifying your home.
